$50 BONUS IS VOTED CITY SCHOOL CORPS

Action Taken by Board of Education.

A bonus of $50, payable in the May 30 payroll, was granted teachers and other employees of the public school system at the monthly meeting of the city board of education Monday at the school administration building. Two hundred and thirty-six employees, exclusive of Supt. E. E. Holt and Douglas Torrance, clerk of the board of education, will share in the distribution of the funds, which amount to $11,800. This is made possible through the good collection of taxes in December of 1945 and payment of delinquent taxes, in the office of the county treasurer, the board reported.

Authorization of the bonus payment was in keeping with the board's practice of granting further pay whenever finances make it possible, and yesterday's action followed a discussion in which such a measure seemed warranted. Action was taken after a careful estimate had been made of the anticipated expenditures and income for the forthcoming year.

Other matters of business transacted included the transfer of a small section of Madison avenue from the city school district to the city of Marion, at the request of school patrons, payment of bills in the amount of $8,064.30 and acceptance of the resignation of Howard P. Wiseman, instructor of printing at Harding High school and George Niemi, instructor of mechanical drawing and head football coach at Harding. Mr. Wiseman's resignation, effective several weeks ago, was necessitated through illness in the family. Bills included coal amounting to $1,098.21 and a new boiler for the Pearl street building at a cost of $1,389.50.

The board approved the summer music program, which will include two concerts, a series of weekly rehearsals and band practice prior to the opening of the fall term. Under the direction of Homer Huffman, instructor of instrumental music in the schools, and also authorized A. C. May, principal at Harding, to schedule a summer school program at Harding for pupils wishing to make up classes.

Lewis Keeps Silent

But Lewis kept quiet. Prior to the meeting of the 230-man UMW policy committee, another session was scheduled in the negotiations between representatives of the union and mine owners. Government mediators, Paul W. Fuller, however, got the negotiators to agree yesterday to discuss what was occurring in their meetings.

Lewis did not attend yesterday's sessions.

Blood pressures on Capitol Hill were rising. Senator Lucas (D-III) called for legislation to make it a crime to conspire to halt public utility services. He said the strike was threatening a "complete breakdown" of the nation's utility and health services.

Edward R. Burke, former Nebraska senator and head of the Southern Coal Producers association, joined with representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers and Rep. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) in supporting the latter's bill to outlaw a union royalty on production. They appeared before the house judiciary committee.

Lewis is asking the operators to create a health and welfare fund to be administered by the union. The operators say he wants a 10-cent royalty on each ton of bituminous coal. Lewis has not publicly made this demand specific.

Green Praises Lewis

As if to counter the criticism being heaped upon Lewis and the miners for the extended strike, AFL President William Green made public a letter to the UMW president, who brought his mine union back to the federation last winter.

"The ranks of labor hail the courage, the spirit and the determination with which you are fighting for adequate health and safety for the miners and for welfare provisions for their dependents," wrote Green, a one-time miner.

"The seven million members of the AFL will fight with you."

Third Man Arrested in Lima Vice Probe

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., May 7.—A third person was under arrest today on morals charges as a result of an Allen county grand jury investigation of a case which officials said involved immoral relations among some 150 teen-aged youths.

Sheriff W. R. Dailey said Harry S. Green, 22, was arrested yesterday on a secret indictment and would be arraigned Wednesday along with John Hise, 31-year-old radio announcer, who broadcast under the name of John Daniels, and Richard Henderson, 19-year-old unemployed youth.

Hise and Henderson pleaded guilty in municipal court last week, and Hise was released under $2,000 bond. Their cases were turned over to the grand jury, however, and following indictment by the jury, bonds were set at $15,000 each and Hise returned to jail.

Ex-GI Workers Refuse To Leave Despite Violence.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 7.—Some 50 ex-GI workers refused to leave the struck Allis-Chalmers plant at neighboring Norwood last night after violence flared yesterday when office workers and others left company property.

The overnight group, most of whom had trickled back to work during the past week despite CIO Electrical Workers' picket lines, slept on improvised beds in the main building of the plant, company officials said.

A crowd estimated at 200 gathered at the front entrance to the plant yesterday as office personnel and some production workers began leaving.

Two women and eight men were arrested on charges of assault with dangerous weapons after numerous stones were hurled at automobiles containing plant employees. No injuries were reported.

Lt. Charles Voss of the Hamilton county police said the ex-GIs decided to remain overnight after witnessing the stone hurling incident.

The plant has been on strike since March 19 in a wage dispute, the latest demand calling for an increase of 25 cents an hour. About 1,600 workers are affected.

REVENGE ON SLOTS PUTS VET IN COURT

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., May 7.—A plea that he was trying to recoup mustering-out pay he lost in slot machines yesterday saved a Steubenville youth from a prison sentence on a charge of counterfeiting.

The youth, Woodrow Wilson Taylor, who said he was a prisoner of war for 22 months after the start of the Italian campaign, pleaded guilty with his father, Earle W. Taylor, to making ten slugs for 50-cent slot machines. He told U. S. District Judge Mell C. Underwood that he didn't realize that this was counterfeiting. He said he hoped only to make the machines give back some of his losses.

Judge Underwood put both on probation for 18 months after determining that neither had a previous record.

Paul Dennis Morrison and Thomas Eugene Little, both 18 years from Newark, were placed on probation for five years when they pleaded guilty to stealing a mail sack.

Juanita Taylor of Gouster, Athens county, was given two years' probation on a charge of forging and passing a money order.

Good Neighbors of Injured Morrow Countian Plow 87 Acres in Day; Will Get Nylon Reward

Wives of the farmers who helped plow the farm of injured Otis Mead of Morrow county are shown above. They will all receive nylons from the owner of the farm as a surprise gift. Left to right: Mrs. Clara Hilton, Mrs. Lucille Sears, Mrs. Gladys Van Sickle, Mrs. Lucille Mead, Mrs. Larry Mead, Mrs. Clara Farmer, Mrs. Katherine Patrick, Mrs. Alice Sears and Mrs. Clyde Hubbard.

Special to The Star
MT. GILEAD, May 6.—Otis Mead, Morrow county farmer, believes there still are some generous people in the world, at least in South Bloomfield township of Morrow county.

Unable to do his farm work because of a knee fracture and a broken bone in his left ankle, 23 of his neighbors recently surprised him by coming to his farm and plowing and fitting his 87 acres all in one day.

The story began April 18, at Mead's farm, which is adjacent to Lyon's lake, a favorite picnic site of a generation ago, in South Bloomfield township in the southeastern part of Morrow county.

Wind is At Blame
Mead was hitching a team of colts to the wagon when a gust of wind blew a barn door open. The colts, startled by the sudden movement, bolted, and started down the lane toward the farm truck parked near the road.

Faced with the task of trying to stop the runaway team and at the same time trying to save the truck from being smashed by the wagon, Mead rushed down the lane. The wagon, the truck and Mead all came together at the same time. Little damage resulted to the wagon or truck, but Mead wound up in a wheel chair with doctor's orders to stay off his feet for at least six weeks.

That's why the situation looked pretty grim to the Mead family. Of course they were thankful the injuries were not more serious, but that did not solve the problem of the 87 acres of land to be plowed and planted.

But the Meads had figured without thinking of the neighbors, which, in South Bloomfield township, is more than just a word. They sort of figure down there that when someone is in trouble, everyone else should pitch in and give a hand.

April 25, just one week after the accident, things started happening around Bloomfield. Farmers were up a little earlier, getting their chores done and their tractors greased and gassed up. By about 8:30 they started arriving. By noon and three they came, leaving urgent farm work behind to help a neighbor who was in trouble.

By noon there were more tractors assembled in Otis Mead's field than have been seen in one place in Morrow county since before the war at the county fair. Twenty-five in all, some with disks, but the majority pulling plows. By noon one large field was plowed and disked.

At the same time something else was happening around the house. The neighbor wives, figuring that Mrs. Mead had plenty to do without fixing dinner for 25 hungry farmers had arrived with bulging picnic baskets. When the tractors were shut down for noon, the operators gathered around a laden table that had been set up under a large tree in Mead front yard.

Another Surprise
By noon something else was happening. The owner of the farm, Charles R. Gumb of Columbus, had called to get the correct overall size of all the men who had helped, and the size of nylons each lady would require. Mr. Gumb, who is in the wholesale clothing business, was expressing appreciation for a job where no pay was expected.

After dinner the tractors were assembled in the second large field and by nightfall the job was done. Eighty-seven acres plowed and disked all in one day, by a group of neighbors who just wouldn't stand by without helping when someone was in trouble.

One of the tractor operators was ain and Burton Nesbitt, lighted the taper.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. W. C. Batchelor, organist, and Mrs. David Strasser, vocalist.

There were 50 guests present for the reception and buffet luncheon at the home of the bride in Mt. Gilead. Mrs. Carl C. Robertson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Clyde Measener, sister of the groom, were the hosts. Mrs. Robert Aplan, sister of the bridegroom, had charge of the guest book.

The former Miss Coldwell has been associated with the Ohio Fuel Gas office in Galion as cashier and bookkeeper for the past 15 years. She was graduated from Mt. Gilead High school in 1928.

Mr. Kelly is back at the Stratburg Mfg. Co. here after serving three years in World War II, with one year on Olinas with the Medical Corps. He was graduated from Galion schools in 1925 and attended Ashland college. The couple are on a wedding trip in the east.

Gestures Without Meaning

WALTER LIPPMANN'S report, at the end of a six-week tour of Europe, that the war-scarred continent is resigned to a renewal of its ordeal by war may explain many things which have been begging for explanation.

It may explain the behavior of a Russian regime which refuses to cooperate in any move that does not promise to give direct advantage to the Soviet Union. It may explain why the Russian government seems to go out of its way to prove that cooperative security is at most no more than a talking point. If Josef Stalin's government has decided in its inner councils that cooperative security is a vain hope, its attempt to win unilateral security for Russia is clearly understandable. To do anything else would be a betrayal of the responsibility it has been exercising in behalf of the Soviet Union.

It may explain what many correspondents have reported as a trend toward communism in Europe. Unless it may be assumed that great numbers of Europeans are eager to rush into the outstretched arms of Russia because of admiration for the Russian system, only one other assumption is possible. It is that great numbers of Europeans are convinced that in the war to come the advantage will lie with the only major military power remaining in Europe. If Europe has nothing but power politics to look forward to, the Russian bandwagon offers the longest free ride.

European defeatism—an atmosphere of resignation to the inevitability of still another and still deadlier war—also may explain one other thing that lacks explanation. Among many Americans there is a feeling that what is going on in the United Nations is a series of gestures without meaning. The meaning is waiting on proof that the major members of the United Nations can quit maneuvering against each other and start maneuvering against the common threat to their existence—World War III.
European defeatism may be spreading.

To Make a Dream Real

THE survival problem all small private colleges are hoping to solve is especially acute for Negro colleges. Their endowments never were large enough to cover their expenses even before interest rates dropped. They have been forced to appeal directly to the public for operating money.

Twenty-seven of the colleges banded together in 1943 to make a joint appeal. Their United Negro College Fund reached $900,000 in 1944.
Last year it went over a million. This year the Fund is hoping to raise $1,300,000 to meet current expenses.

As such funds go, this is a pittance. For the Negro colleges it is a vital pittance, however—the difference between success and failure for their dream of lifting the Negro race's handicap of illiteracy. One out of every 10 Americans is a Negro. The nation's stake in their education is the progressive disappearance of the handicap which has kept so many Negroes from making their potential contribution to the United States.
A nation with billions to spend on doubtful projects should find many times $1,300,000 for the college educations of young Negro men and women who will be their race's leaders tomorrow.

Of Course There's the Black Market

ATTORNEY GENERAL CLARK might have been more tactful than to announce publicly at this time a drive against income tax evaders fattening off the black market. This is one of the things everyone knows about, but almost no one talks about, especially inside the government.

Inside the government the official version is that price control is indispensable; i.e., so successful—that the black market doesn't amount to much. The fact is that in some parts of the country and in some lines of goods the black market is a tremendous thing, dwarfing the white market.

There is nothing deep, dark and mysterious about this. Black markets come into existence automatically when demand for commodities exceeds the supply than can be sold under restrictions unfavorable to the dealer. The dealer thereupon is tempted to sell the same commodities outside restrictions—in the black market. Under OPA it has been one of the country's most rapidly-growing institutions.
Millions insist they never have seen it or dealt in it, but most of them are daily using commodities that were purchased in it without their direct knowledge.

The attorney general of the United States, with a problem of collecting income taxes from citizens in the business of sidestepping OPA, should be called to testify on the necessity of continuing it another year or until patience runs out, whichever comes sooner.

Attlee Carefully Masks Socialist Operations

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The senate debate on the proposed loan to Britain has conspicuously ducked the fact that the British government is lavishly buying its way into Socialism. Some of the senate news-men, who are the senator's "tearful critics," attribute the vote to the broad lack of knowledge among politicians of financial matters. They should charge it, instead, to the masking operations of the Attlee government. Not even the most learned financial authorities of the empire can ascertain how the Attlee treasury has taken over the Bank of England and the mines, or how it is proceeding now to take the cable and wireless companies, railroads, steel and whatnot. The operations have been covered with secrecy and confusion worthy of an Eisenhower invasion of Europe, in which false moves and rumors were used to conceal the real intent from the enemy.

Yet sufficient general evidence is available in the government bills proposed in parliament to piece together a general outline of the scheme. Each industry is being seized in a slightly different way. The government has dead-heartedly refused to announce a general policy. But the actions taken so far warrant the following conclusions:

The government is buying its nation with debt. It is purchasing industries by offering government stock or securities to private owners for their private stock and securities. The price paid is rarely divulged, but seems generally to be the current market value, or better.

Time's Analysis

The London Times (April 29) analyzed the processes so far in an effort to offer some worthwhile advice to holders of railroad securities who may be next, and reached this conclusion: "Whatever method of nationalization is adopted, railroad stocks should be A Nasal Illusion?

After considerable research, science has perfected a spray which makes drug stores smell like drug stores.

What won't they think of next?
In the old days, of course, drug stores came by that drug store smell naturally enough. But that was before they added the douchice.

Back in those days, a drug store smelled like drugs, with maybe a touch of saraparilla. But the modern drug store fills prescriptions for the same reason it sells slams—merely as a convenience to its customers.

It makes its money on club breakfasts and the lending library and lawn furniture.

The successful druggist used to be one in whom the community had confidence and to whom, as a consequence, it brought prescriptions for jilting. This modern counterpart must merchandise everything from radios to leather goods, all the while keeping a vigilant eye on the kids at the pinball machine.

It's good news about the spray to make drug stores smell like

Germany New Dueling Ground

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE European reaction to his disarmament treaty proposal should be enough to convince Secretary of State Byrnes that his advisers have not supplied him with a true picture of the German situation.

The proposal was still a top secret when I left Paris a week ago Monday; when I read the text in the New York newspapers the next morning, I would have bet right then and there that the Russians would be rude and angry and that the British would brush it off with frigid politeness.

The proposal, which would have been well received in 1944, is based on a radical misunderstanding of what is happening in Germany. It takes no account of the evolution of Soviet and British policy. That is why it has met such a rebuff.

The proposal assumes, quite mistakenly, that the paramount objective of our two allies is to keep Germany disarmed. In fact, they are maneuvering for position in anticipation of a war which they regard not necessarily as inevitable but as probable.

In such a war Germany would be not only a battlefield; the Germans would play an enormous part. Though battered, the Germans are still by all odds the strongest nation in Europe. A duel is in progress between London and Moscow for the control of German population, and its high military potential.

Reason for Error

There is an important reason why the American government is basically misinformed, why it has lost touch with the realities. It is that the Americans abroad are not dealing at first hand with the main elements of the German situation.

In the division of the zones of occupation, the United States got that part of Germany where nothing that really matters is happening, or can be made to happen.

The people are conscientious doing the best they can and in Gen. Gey they have a chief who, in character, bearing and competence, represents the very best of the American tradition. But as to running Germany, and determining its destiny, the Americans are not in the driver's seat.
They are passengers and backseat drivers.

President Roosevelt must have guessed that this would happen if the United States was relegated to southern Germany. He argued for the division of Germany into four zones, insisting that Britain should have the zone which, because it contains the oceanic ports and the Ruhr, is the key position in Germany, and indeed in Europe.

President Roosevelt had to give in.
As a result it is only nominally true to say that Germany has been divided into four zones of occupation. The more revealing way to describe the arrangement is to say that the Soviet Union and Britain have divided Prussia between them, leaving the south German states to be divided between France and the United States.

Now, since 1866, when Bismarck defeated the south German states, Prussia has dominated Germany. Prussia contains all the essential elements of the German power; the strategic gateways into the Low Countries and France, the oceanic ports, the primary resources, the basic industries, the strongest and most numerous population, the political party machines and their bosses, the headquarters of the trade unions, of the banks, of the cartels, of the communications, the main markets, the apparatus of publicity, the Lutheran church, the homeland of the military caste, the centralized bureaucracy, and last but by no means least, the capital city of Berlin.

Whoever rules Prussia has, for that past 80 years, ruled Germany.
The Americans are not ruling Prussia. The British and the Russians have divided it between them, and the inner drama of Germany is the contest between them for the control of Prussia.

The outcome of that contest is bound to determine the destiny of the whole of Germany, and of Europe, and of the world.

If the reader now asks how all this is to be reconciled with the spirit of the Allied pledges to disarm and demilitarize Germany, I am afraid the answer is that only among the Americans and the French is the avowed policy the real policy.

The real policies of the British and of the Russians are disclosed by their actions rather than by their formal statements. They may be described, I think, as a reversion gradual but accelerating, by drift rather than by clear intention, to their prewar illusions about Germany, namely, to the notion that each can find a way to use a united Germany.

The British, who like to think of the continuity of their foreign policy even when it is wrong, are reverting to the notion of Neville Chamberlain that Britain can turn Germany against Russia.

The Russians, who also have a remarkable continuity, are reverting towards the basic conception which produced the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact of 1939—that Germany can be turned away from Russia against the west.

Much of this Anglo-Soviet duel is hidden from view, yet not so much that we know that much is hidden. The German officers who were captured at Stalingrad and were for a time used to make propaganda against Hitler have disappeared behind the famous iron curtain. But it would be naïve to suppose that they do not continue to form an important connection with important elements of the German army.

There is also a German army, a large and good one, which surrendered to the British. The story of that surrender has still to be told in detail. The story of what happened to that German army after the surrender is still hidden behind a silken curtain.

Officers Well Treated

Enough is known, however, to warrant the statement that the corps of officers in this particular army were treated with exceptional consideration, with enough chivalry to justify them in feeling that their careers as professional soldiers were not necessarily and finally terminated.

Their treatment may have been in fact merely sportsmanship to a loser and chivalry to the vanquished. But it has suited remarkably well these German nationalists most want to believe—namely, that they will live to fight another war, in which Germany will recover her territory and her greatness.

What is happening on the surface confirms in every way what can only be inferred about what is happening under the surface.
In the open the Anglo-Soviet duel is being fought out through the German political parties.

The Russians, of course, are sponsoring and promoting the Communist party. Its most prominent leader is Wilhelm Pieck. Its director, I am reliably informed, is Walter Ulbricht, a former officer on Marshal Zukov's staff, whose wife has been one of the marshal's secretaries. The object of the Communist party is to swallow the Socialist party, and thus to unite under one command the whole German working class. In the Soviet zone and in Berlin, this has been accomplished.

The British, on the other hand, are sponsoring the Social Democratic party under the leadership of Dr. Schumacher, who resists the fusion of the Socialists with the Communist party. They appear to be thinking wisely that the British Labor party can resurrect the second Socialist International to combat the third Communist International.

The most noteworthy fact about this political contest is that it is

Decay of Empires

By RAYMOND MOLEY

ONE of the best small examples of the vanishing concept of empire is in what is happening to Denmark. There was a time when a Danish king ruled Britain, Norway and Sweden. For centuries, the Danes had colonies in the Caribbean which were ultimately sold for cash. Iceland belonged to Denmark. Also the ice-covered island of Greenland, with its 15,000 Eskimos. The Faroe Islands —the "Far of Isles" north of Scotland—still belong to Denmark.

After the first World War, Iceland became independent, but shared the Danish king. When Germany took over Denmark, Iceland severed its relations and went on alone.

The Far of Isles were occupied by the British for five war years, and during that time, a strong separatist movement grew up. Now these islands are claiming autonomy and have sent a delegation to Copenhagen to arrange the details. To a considerable degree, the Danish government has agreed to recognize this claim. The dialect of the islands will be taught in schools and spoken in churches and in government, along with Danish. The diet of the islands will levy its own taxes. The administration will be in the hands of four native members of the diet, with a representative of Denmark as chairman. Judges and police will be Danish. In trade agreements, the islands will be independent negotiators. And when the majority of the people vote for complete independence, Denmark will respect the demand.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Veterans Speak

THERE was nothing I could ask for That I could not get at once—So they told me when the battles Raged on all the red-hot fronts: "Nothing's too good for you, buddy."
Was the verdict in advance....
Now that all the fighting's over, Could I have a pair of pants?

II
"You'll get loans to start a business—All the breaks your way will toss:
You'll get every form of comfort!
Was the word that came across:
"Just speak up and you will get it; Put the homefolks to the test."
So we heard, but there is trouble Getting just a coat and vest.

III
"You are heroes extra special—We can't do too much for you; Nothing can pay what we owe you."
Was the message that came through:
Life will be a bed of roses, So we heard, for G. I. Joes....
You can have the bed; just help us Get inside a suit of clothes!

IV
"Brave defenders of a nation...
Noble fighters for the right...
When the bleeding is all over,
We will see you're treated right; Simply state what you require—Home, some money, prospects fair"...
So we heard, but listen, mister, How about some underwear?"

V
"Congress wants to see you happy—Agencies are on the job—Everybody wants full justice For the sailor and the goby—This came flying over airwaves—Over beach and sea and ke...
Now we ask a two-piece suit and Get the swift reply "No dice!"

VI
We saw hell at Okinawa—We got plastered at Salpan;
We were battered at Castino And were in "The Bulge" big jam; Home was yearning to receive us And it cheered us 'til it hurt—What's the chances for a hero Getting just one new white shirt!

The fellow who, arrested as a swindler, says he lost $400,000 at the races, is probably in the pattern of the fellow who ran up to us at a track-once and declared "I've won the last five races at big odds. How do you stand?" We asked him, "I'm almost even on the day," he replied in delight.

CAN YOU REMEMBER

Away back when if a child didn't know how to draw a run fast, lie up somebody with wire, ambush a neighbor or demonstrate a street hold-up he wasn't necessarily considered backward?

Italy is to be denied any submarines and allowed only a demilitarized navy. This will probably be O. K. to a country to whom any further submerging must seem pretty terrifying.

The runs of "Life With Father," "Able's Irish Rose" and "Tobacco Road" are being eclipsed by that of the Nuremberg war criminal trials.

Window Wipers

By TRUMAN TWILL

Herewith, another idea for better living in the future. This one concerns windows.
The architects keep putting more and bigger windows in the houses and buildings they design, but so far have done nothing about keeping the things clean.

Window washers, amateur and professional, keep falling behind in the work. Not only do they fall behind, but frequently fall down. Is there anything less scientific than a householder on a stepladder straddled over a clump of shrubbery, trying to reach the top of a dirty window? Is there anything more hair-raising than a professional window washer perched on a ledge high in the air removing the grease and grime from a pane of glass?

In the future this job will be done better. To see what is ahead for windows, go back in metaphor to the first automobiles. Think of what has happened to windshields.

They put windshield wipers on them. The first wipers were worked by hand. Later, machinery took over the job. When it rains and the driver wants clear vision today, he touches a button and swish, swish, swish, the windshield is clean.

On the fancier cars which blaze the trail for improvements that show up eventually on ordinary models, the driver can press another button.
The extra one releases water to moisten the windshield when it gets dirty. The regular wiper then cleans it just like a window washer, except that the job is done from inside the car.
In houses and buildings of the future windows will be self-cleaning. The job will be done from the inside with an adaptation of the automobile windshield wiper. A window can be cleaned as often as it needs cleaning. On rainy days it can be wiped continuously if someone wants to see out.

There will be no more human-fly performances on high buildings, no more household accident claims after foolish falls from stepladders and stools. But principally, there will be more clean windows.

In line out of 10 houses—10 out of 10 where there are storm windows—the condition of the windows pending completion of spring cleaning is serious. The occupants do not know when they look out whether it is a storm getting ready to break or the smear on the dirty window. Passersby do not know when they look in whether the house is full of smoke or the windows covered with grease and soot.

We invite anyone who thinks a proposal for automatic window wipers is silly to make a tour of his neighborhood and dwell on the possibilities of cleaning all the windows instantly by pushing buttons.

ing Along at Half Speed, Makers See Gloom Ahead

By DAVID J. WILKE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

MAY 7—The nation's automobile assembly lines operate at about half their maximum capacity and within the next two or three months, in effect, is the viewpoint of most of the leading car makers as they see their supply problems becoming worse instead of better.

Individual seeking a new model passenger car, say the industry chiefs, is just that much farther away from early delivery.

In this connection the industry's general sales managers reiterate their earlier advice to prospective buyers to consult as far in advance as possible with their local dealers. There is no chance, say the sales chiefs, of getting delivery on short notice.

Reports that local deliveries are being curtailed by heavy shipments abroad bring instant denial from the car manufacturers. To reports that "there are lots of new American-made automobiles" in this or that South American city, the manufacturers point out that exports are under rigid control by the commerce department.

The maximum permissible exports of passenger cars are about six per cent of the average production from 1935 to 1939 and surveys indicate that not more than six per cent of current output is going abroad.

Production last week reached 67,385 units, the highest level yet

SENATOR CALLS FOR COAL STRIKE BILL

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 7—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) proposed yesterday that congress pass a resolution making it unlawful to conspire to halt public utility services.

Declaring the coal strike is threatening a "complete breakdown" of utility and health services, the Illinois senator told the senate he will offer legislation to make it a criminal offense for anyone to conspire to bring about such a result.

Lucas said it is his opinion that under Section 19 of the criminal code, persons who act to "stifle the economy of the nation" can be prosecuted. But he said if congress wants to make its intent clearer, it can pass a resolution such as he suggested.

Lucas shouted that settlement of the coal strike is more important to the country than any legislation that congress might pass.

Edward R. Burke, a member of the bituminous coal operators' negotiating committee, testified yesterday that legislation outlawing the payment of royalties on coal would be "a long step toward settling" the present strike.

attained in postwar output. Omitting Canadian production, included in the total, the truck and commercial vehicle assemblies and that part of the output reserved for export, probably little more than half the aggregate became available for delivery to domestic car buyers.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Reducing

When it comes to reducing, many are called but few are chosen.

The reason is obvious. Most who start out to lose their excess poundage have the goal clearly in mind, but lack the "know-how" for attainment. Thus, they adopt some reputedly "marvelous" but poorly-balanced diet. Small wonder that after a few days, they feel so badly the game doesn't seem worth the candle and drop the whole program before it gets well started.

The surest as well as the safest way to reduce is under the direction of a physician. In the first place, he knows how to safeguard the essential needs of the body while, at the same time, depriving it of its fat-making foods. In the second, he has many things at his command which will aid the patient in using the proper diet and following the routine outlined.

For instance, it has been discovered that there are certain drugs which may be used to depress the appetite, but such drugs should be used only if and as the doctor prescribes them.

One of these is known as amphetamine. Doctors Leonora Hawicko and Percy H. Sprague of Edmonton, Alberta, treated 162 patients for overweight. Only 72 carried out the treatment for a period longer than two months. They found that the amount of fat lost varied in proportion to the number of pounds they were overweight. Those who were 100 pounds or more overweight lost 7.6 pounds per month while those less than 50 pounds overweight lost 4.7 pounds per month. The average weight loss for the group was 5 1/2 pounds per month.

In carrying out the reduction program each patient was given a complete physical examination. A basal metabolism test was done on the majority of the patients to determine if there was a lack of thyroid secretion. If the patient's metabolic rate was zero or lower, he was given thyroid extract daily.

This metabolism test is carried out by measuring the amount of oxygen used by the body in a given time, and it shows the rate at which the various activities of the body go on. The diet which the patients used contained 1100 calories. The patients were also advised to limit the amount of salt and fluids which they took.

The amphetamine was given at 8:00 a. m. and 10:00 a. m. If the patient's weight became stationary, even though he followed the diet, the dose of amphetamine was gradually increased.

In order to overcome any vitamin deficiency which might have resulted from the low calorie diet, multiple vitamin pills were prescribed. Eight of the patients who were a great deal overweight were given injections of a mercury-containing preparation into a vein at intervals of four days to two weeks. This preparation had the effect of speeding up the elimination of fluids through the kidneys.

It would appear that the amphetamine has a two-fold action. First, in many patients, it decreases the appetite due to the fact that it relaxes the muscles of the bowel and stomach, and causes a lessening of hunger, since the sensation of hunger is produced by the stomach contractions. Secondly, it produces a greater capacity for physical exertion by the man who offers guaranteed cancer cures and promises miracles of recovery.

Increasing the desire for activity. It has also been suggested that perhaps this drug stimulates the action of the kidneys and helps to eliminate fluids from the tissues.

Of course, amphetamine must never be taken except under a physician's careful and continuous supervision.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR HIGHWAY WORK

Section of Marion-Williamsport Road To Be Rebuilt.

Contract for reconstruction of the Marion-Williamsport road was awarded by Marion county commissioners yesterday to C. W.
Seckel of Caledonia.

The estimated $16,916.37 project will include resurfacing slightly over two miles of highway running directly east from Five Points. The old base will be scarified and reshaped and a new four inch macadam course laid over the top. About 4,600 tons of stone will be needed for the project, the county engineer's office has estimated. Ditches also will be reworked. Work is expected to start within the next few days and should be completed about July 30.

When the road is completed it will have a 50 foot right-of-way and a 14 foot pavement.

C. & O. TO REDUCE TRAIN SCHEDULES

Coal Shortage Also To Bring Furloughs of Workmen.

Cleveland officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad reported today they would furlough 10,235 employees Friday and that passenger and freight schedules would be cut drastically. Marion officials of the C. & O. said today that they had received no official notice of the action.

The company reported it planned the action as a means of meeting the coal shortage resulting from the miners' strike.

The Cleveland report by Associated Press said 20 trains would be cancelled outright on the Chesapeake and Ohio lines, while schedules of 11 others would be reduced. Additionally, 15 trains will be cancelled May 15.

Cancellations include trains which operate between Washington and Cincinnati, Columbus, and Toledo and Ashland and Louisville, Ky.

Eric railroad officials here said today they had no information regarding curtailment of service on that road.

LAUSCHE ASKS PROBE AS VET LOSES SHIRT

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., May 7.—Gov.
Frank J. Lausche called for a "thorough investigation" of a slot machine and other gambling activities in the Steubenville area today after reading of the case of a war veteran who submitted making 50-cent slot slugs to recoup mastering out pay lost in slots there.

"I am not going to let that Steubenville situation rest," Governor Lausche told his press conference, referring to guilty pleas entered to counterfeiting charges in U. S. district court yesterday by Woodrow Wilson Taylor, 24-year-old ex-soldier, and his father, Earle W. Taylor, 66. District Judge Moll G. Underwood placed both on probation for 18 months after he learned neither had a previous record.

The governor disclosed that James Taylor of Canton, a cousin of the youth, had talked to him about the case several days ago and that he had been following it from the time of the arrests by U. S. secret service agents.

"I'm expecting this matter to be thoroughly investigated," Governor Lausche said, "and whatever legal action by state authorities, liquor agents or others, to be taken to bring to justice all involved in the wrongdoing."

"While anyone who counterfeits federal coin must be dealt with through criminal procedures, it is shocking to believe that the racketeers standing in the background exhibiting slot machines who are the principal profiteers are permitted by law enforcement officials to remain unmolested."

U. S. NEARING CLOSE IN KIDNAPING CASE

By The Associated Press
HUNTINGTON, W. V., May 7.— The government expects to complete today its case against three Ohioans charged with kidnaping a Huntington woman and her daughter last January 10.

The government, which announced at the trial opening last Thursday it was asking the death penalty, yesterday succeeded in introducing statements allegedly made by the three youths following their arrest. Defense counsel sought to bar the statements, but was overruled by Federal Judge Harry E. Walker.

City Detective Howard Newman, relating the statements, said one of the defendants, Jack Diamond, 23, Chesapeake, told police the women, Mrs. Mollie Gossett, 32, and her 18-year-old daughter, Marcella, were forcibly put into a car. Newman quoted Diamond as saying the younger girl tried to jump from the car as it crossed the bridge into Ohio.

The detective also quoted Diamond as admitting each of the three men assaulted Mrs. Gossett although she tried to fight off their advances.

Newman said Lehman Johnson, 31, Proctorville, told police he couldn't remember all of the night's happenings. But Bernard Carico, 20, Chesapeake, stated the women got into the car without being forced, Newman said.

Mackenzie Sees New Fight For French Control

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The French referendum, resulting in the rejection of the leftist-supported draft of the new constitution proposed for the republic is one of the most important of the recent political developments in Europe.

It represents a major (though not necessarily decisive) battle in the war between Communists and the more conservative elements for control of France. The Reds and their allies, the extreme left Socialists, have lost this engagement in the conservative "Popular Republican Movement" supported by the Dewitt Mackenzie right-wing Socialists.

You get the real import of this clash when you pause to consider that France is one of the Big Four and that, with Germany and Italy knocked out, she is the only great power left on the continent with the exception of Russia. No wonder England, sitting just across the channel from France and highly allergic to Communism, has her fingers tightly crossed.

Not Over Yet
She had better keep them crossed, too, for another great French political fight is in the offing. Since the constitution has been rejected, another constituent assembly must be elected on June 2 to prepare a fresh draft, and the Communists then will go all-out to capture the legislature.

How will the election go? Having spent considerable time in France recently I'm sure that any prediction would be rash. Under normal circumstances it would be safe to say that the more conservative elements would win, because basically France, with its great agricultural population, is conservative.

However, these aren't normal circumstances. France is badly hurt physically, economically and morally. Thousands upon thousands of her people are suffering great privations, including unemployment. In short the French are in that frame of mind which might impel them to seize upon extreme measures in order to get relief.

Stomachs May Decide Therefore it strikes me that the election on June 2 will be influenced in no small degree by the state of the nation at that time.
If conditions have improved, then one might expect a continuation of the conservative trend shown in Sunday's referendum. If things should become worse, then the voters might reach for the hammer-and-sickle ballot, hoping that a change would bring ease.

Apocryphal of this it's interesting to note that Moscow has promised hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain—a point which a lot of voters would overlook.

The way the referendum has turned out, there's a possibility that we may see former President De Gaulle in action again.
Sunday's Conservative victory was really his victory, for it was won by those who supported his leadership and who believed he was right in condemning the Communist scheme of inaugurating a one-chamber legislature, which would have the power to appoint and remove all judicial branches of the government. Opponents of such a unicameral legislature maintained that it would permit establishment of a dictatorship by any faction gaining control.

General DeGaulle resigned as president in high dudgeon last January after a dispute with leftist cabinet ministers who wouldn't support his plan for a large army.

Truman Acts To Nip Threat Of Strike By Airline Pilots

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 7.—President Truman today created an emergency board to investigate a wage dispute between 13 airlines and the Airline Pilots association.
The members of the board are to be appointed later. They are to report to Mr. Truman within 30 days.

No change is to be made in conditions out of which the dispute grew for 30 days after the report, except by agreement.

Principally involved are 2,000 pilots and co-pilots of Transcontental and Western Air, Inc.

Mr. Truman ordered creation of the emergency board because the wage controversies "threaten substantially to interrupt interstate commerce within several states of the union."

Named in the order along with TWA are American Airlines, American Overseas Airlines, Braniff Airways, Chicago and Southern Airlines, Delta Air Corp., Eastern Airlines, National Airlines, Northeast Airlines, Northwest Airlines, Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, United Airlines and Western Airlines.

The TWA pilots had voted a strike today at 11:59 p. m. in support of maximum annual wage rates from $12,200 to $16,000 for pilots of four-engine planes, shorter hours and other adjustments.

BOTH SIDES TO AIR VIEWS ON OHIO DAM

By The Associated Press
MARIETTA, O., May 7.—Two Ohio civic groups will send delegations to Washington next month to battle for and against the proposed $10,000,000 Dillon dam on the Licking river between Newark and Zanesville.

The Muskingum Valley association, an organization of property owners along the Muskingum river between here and Zanesville, decided yesterday to send a delegation to a house flood control hearing in the capital June 23-24 to support the Army engineers-proposed project.

The Licking Valley Protective association, opposing the Army's single-reservoir plan and establishing an alternative 13 smaller dams, already has named a delegation to attend the committee hearings. It contends the one-reservoir plan would condemn too much tillable farm land.

The Muskingum Valley association adopted a resolution urging businessmen of Muskingum, Morgan and Washington counties to press the flood control committee by letter and telegram for adoption of the single-reservoir project.

Former Gov. George White, a vice president of the association, told yesterday's meeting:
"The Licking is the weakest spot in the whole Muskingum conservancy district. We need a dam—the Dillon dam."

Men's Suits May Stay Scarce Into 1948, CPA Chief Warns

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 7.—CPA Chief John D. Small's gloomy forecast that men's suits may remain scarce into 1948 today overshadowed industry suggestions on how to increase output 10 to 30 per cent.

The Civilian Production Administration slapped the government's cards on the table in observing to suit producers:
"Anything we do now can alleviate the situation and help meet the unprecedented demand for suits. However, if that demand continues it may be a year or two before the situation is normal again."

After Small made this statement to manufacturers yesterday, other CPA officials who withheld their names told reporters they expect no slackening in demand for many months.

In the face of this outlook, CPA took time out to null over manufacturers' recommendations for speeding up production quickly. At a meeting Thursday the agency will discuss further what to do about these problems outlined by producers:

1. An acute shortage of cotton fabric for pockets. CPA said manufacturers had reported 15% of suits laying unfinished on shelves because we can't get pocket materials.

2. A shortage of rayon linings.
3. Need for more woolen and worsted cloth if full use is to be made of available manpower and machinery.

As for the latter point, CPA said manufacturers estimated they could jump suit production by two to six million suits a year if they had all the cloth they could use.

Producers suggested that to provide more cloth eliminate the re-order which earmarks a big quantity for suits to sell at retail for $35 or less. They said the regulation was concentrating more fabric in the hands of low-cost manufacturers than they could use and thus was curtailing output of higher priced suits.

CPA calculates current production at about 20,000,000 suits a year as compared with a goal of 28,000,000. It says peak pre-war output was around 24,000,000 suits yearly.

The manufacturers also proposed revocation of OPA's maximum average price regulation as it applies to woolen and worsted fabric. This regulation requires producers to turn out about the same ratio of low to high-priced clothes as they did during a base period, usually 1943.

Another suggestion was that the government set up a system of priorities to see that suit makers get enough cotton for pockets.

NIEMI RESIGNS POST AS FOOTBALL COACH

Will Leave Job at Harding at Close of School Year.

The resignation of George J.
Niemi, Harding high school head football coach, was accepted by the board of education at a meeting Monday. Superintendent E. E.
Holt announced today. Mr. Niemi asked that his resignation be effective at the close of the current school year.

He was appointed head coach last fall upon his return from naval service when Joseph Petrich, serving as coach in the emergency, asked to be relieved. He had served as assistant coach before entering service.

Mr. Niemi said today he had no immediate plans for the future.
No recommendation for a successor were made at last night's board of education meeting. Superintendent Holt said. However, he added, consideration will be given to finding a new coach at subsequent board meetings.
